Information for New Clients

Welcome to our practice!

This form explains office procedures and relays important information. Your provider will discuss important aspects of the following information with you when you first meet and will give you the opportunity to ask questions about her professional work and about anything in this form.

Session information

Initial meeting(s) will involve gathering background information and clarifying your needs, concerns, and goals. Sessions are usually 45-60 minutes long, though session length can be adjusted as needed. Frequency is determined based on the work you are doing in counseling at any given time. Many different methods may be used to address the challenges that you bring to therapy. Counseling calls for an active effort on your part. The effort you dedicate between sessions is one of the most important factors to success. You and your provider will discuss how you will know when counseling is complete. However, you are always free to discontinue counseling whenever you feel it is right for you. We ask you to inform your provider and schedule a closing session in order to review your work together and discuss steps going forward. In cases where your provider has not heard from you for 2 months she will assume that counseling is complete and your file will be closed. Please note that you are always welcome to start the counseling process again just by calling to make another appointment.

You can seek a second opinion from another therapist or terminate therapy at any time. Types of approaches may include Interpersonal Psychotherapy, Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (CBT), Dialectical Behavioral Therapy (DBT) skills, and Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR). Feel free to talk with your therapist about the types of therapy she uses at any time. Social Networking Policies

We do not accept friend requests from current or former clients on our psychotherapy related profiles or on social networking sites due to the fact that these sites can compromise clients’ confidentiality and privacy. For the same reason, we request that clients do not communicate with us via any interactive or social networking websites.

Legal Proceedings

Counseling is a place to discuss your most personal thoughts and feelings. In order to best protect your privacy we will not participate in any legal issues unless subpoenaed by a court of law. We do not provide opinions in custody matters or testify on behalf of clients in custody situations. If you become involved in legal proceedings that mandate your provider's participation, you will be expected to pay for all of your provider's professional time, including preparation and transportation costs, even if your provider is called to testify by another party. Because of the difficulty of legal involvement, your provider will charge $300 per hour for preparation and attendance at any legal proceeding.

Fees and Payment

The fee for counseling varies by provider. Please consult with your provider regarding her fees. Payment may be made in the form of cash, check, or credit card due at the beginning of the session. There will be a $25 charge for any returned checks. Requests for special fee accommodations should be discussed ahead of time. In addition to weekly appointments, you will be charged $150/hour for other professional services you may need, though the hourly cost will be prorated for services of less than 60 minutes. Other services include report writing, telephone conversations lasting longer than 10 minutes, preparation of records or treatment summaries, and the time spent performing any other service you may request. If you are using health insurance and your provider is a preferred provider on your plan then your provider's fees, your copayment, deductible, and coinsurance will be determined by your policy.

Insurance Coverage

In order to set realistic treatment goals and priorities it is important for you to evaluate the resources you have available to pay for your treatment. If you have a health insurance policy, it may provide coverage for mental health treatment. However, you (not your insurance company) are ultimately responsible for payment of fees. It is important that you research what mental health services your insurance policy covers. If you have questions about the coverage after reviewing your policy call your plan administrator.

It is important to remember that you always have the right to pay for services yourself.

You should also be aware that your contract with your health insurance company requires that your provider submit information relevant to the services provided to you. Your provider is required to provide a clinical diagnosis. Sometimes your provider may be required to provide additional clinical information such as treatment plans or summaries, or copies of your entire clinical record. Though all insurance companies are mandated to keep such information confidential, your provider and Three Peaks Counseling, LLC have no control over how information submitted to the insurance company is used. In some cases, they may share the information with a national medical information databank. By signing this form you agree that your provider and Three Peaks Counseling, LLC can provide requested information to your insurance carrier.

Billing and payments

Three Peaks Counseling, LLC may use an outside billing service to submit insurance claims. Payment schedules for other professional services will be agreed to when they are requested. If your account has not been paid for more than 60 days and arrangements for payment have not been agreed upon, your provider or Three Peaks Counseling, LLC has the option of using legal means to secure the payment. This may involve hiring a collection agency or going through small claims court, which will require your provider or Three Peaks Counseling, LLC to disclose otherwise confidential information. In most collection situations, the only information released regarding a patient’s treatment is his/her name, the nature of services provided, and the amount due. If such legal action is necessary, its costs will be included in the claim.
